About Allyson

Allyson LaCour was born in Daytona Beach but currently resides in Riverview, Florida, where she lives with her husband and beautiful baby boy. Allyson began singing as a way to bond with her father as a child. He'd pull her up on stage with him at open mic nights, and she'd sing and play guitar to anyone who would listen. Soon, people began requesting performances, and through it all, Allyson cultivated a love for music and community. She found strength in singing songs with a story to tell. It wasn't long until Allyson began writing songs that told her own story. Music became a source of empowerment and an instrument to empower others. As a solo act, Allyson has performed in various singing competitions, including Central Florida Idol, the Colgate Country Showdown, The Voice, and American Idol.

Allyson's sound blurs the lines between folk, country, and pop music. As a songwriter, she's sharing her own story in her debut EP album Living Fearlessly. This new music is a reflection of her journey through life's hills and valleys, along with her bravery to live an authentic life. Of this journey, Allyson says, "My vision is to be fearless in achieving my dreams, so I can hopefully inspire others to do the same."
